Kevin Levermore is a seasoned entrepreneur and financial expert with a proven track record of leading successful ventures across diverse industries. With a background in engineering from his tenure at Georgia DOT, Kevin has held leadership roles in top-tier companies like Toshiba and Hewlett-Packard. He brings his expertise in sales, operations, and business growth to the forefront.

As the founder and CEO of Gladstone Commercial Capital, Kevin has transitioned from the tech and corporate world into the financial arena, where he focuses on empowering small businesses to achieve unparalleled success. His firm specializes in securing strategic investments, offering revenue-sharing models, and providing businesses with innovative financial solutions. Kevin's unique blend of technical acumen and financial expertise ensures that every client benefits from customized strategies that drive growth and profitability.

With a sharp focus on IT, tech, manufacturing, medical discovery firms, and government contracts, Kevin is leading the charge to help businesses maximize their potential. His ability to identify low-risk, high-return investments—such as tax liens and deeds—sets him apart from the competition. Through Master Mind by Kevin G. Levermore, he guarantees investors a 100% return on investment (ROI), underscored by a strong revenue-sharing agreement and a commitment to delivering long-term success.

Currently based in Atlanta, GA, Kevin's vision for Gladstone Commercial Capital is clear: to be the trusted partner for businesses and investors seeking sustainable growth, backed by a robust and secure financial infrastructure. With a deep commitment to client success, Kevin's approach is both forward-thinking and results-driven, making him a trusted name in the financial world.
