

Up Close & Personal

Kevin Levermore's journey is driven by his passions, a blend of personal interests and deep convictions. He loves to explore the world, finding joy in new cultures and experiences through travel. Whether it's a bustling city or a quiet retreat, Kevin's curiosity about the world fuels his adventures.

On the field, Kevin's competitive spirit shines through in his love for sports, especially soccer. He thrives on the challenge, the strategy, and the sense of camaraderie that comes from playing with a team. His love for competition pushes him to stay sharp, both physically and mentally.

Foodlicious

When it comes to food, Kevin is no stranger to seeking out the best flavors. Whether it's indulging in a gourmet meal or discovering a hidden gem on his travels, great food is a source of happiness and connection for him.

But beyond these personal hobbies, Kevin's deepest passions lie in education, the climate, and the growth of people. He believes strongly in the power of education to change lives, which is why he founded The Levermore Foundation to provide opportunities for young minds. His concern for the environment and climate drives his efforts to ensure a better future for coming generations. At the core of it all is his belief in the potential of people, their ability to grow, prosper, and build wealth, not just for themselves but for the good of their communities.

For Kevin, life is about balancing enjoyment with purpose, whether he's competing on the soccer field, enjoying a great meal, or championing causes that will lead to a better, more prosperous world for all.
